

Cottonseed - A New Hope In Treating Brain Cancer Tumors

Post by Josie Vesta
Friday, 05 June 2009 16:00

---

There may be a glimmer of hope for those suffering from a brain tumor and it comes from nature in the form of cottonseed. A University of Alabama at Birmingham study has found that a potent compound in cottonseed appears to be able to overcome the uncontrolled growth patterns of malignant cells. Read more at { NaturalNews }.

Image source: debicates.com